

COX CUTS HIS TALKS; THROAT
IN BAD SHAPE

Sen. Route With Gov. Cox, Huntington, Ore., Sept. 14.—Gov. Cox today carried the Democratic presidential campaign into eastern Oregon and Idaho. Two addresses this afternoon and evening at Boise, Idaho, were his principal engagements but on the way the candidates, with their platforms and other addresses, were held by the physicians for a few days until his voice recovered its strength. Cox was confined to his campaign to brief speeches and handshakes. At Corvallis, Ore., here and other stops the governor's train was met by station gatherings.

Gov. Cox will leave Boise tomorrow night with speeches scheduled at Pocatello, Idaho, tomorrow morning. Again in the late afternoon and Salt Lake City at night. His route then turns westward again with an address at Reno, Nev., Thursday night.

It is to the Pacific coast to recognize that fact. The millions who live in the Pacific coast states to stand behind them in necessary assistance to relieve them of their difficulties.

"Be Careful Who You Admit."

"So one can tranquilly contemplate the future of this republic without anxiety for abundant supplies for admission to our shores only of the immigrants who can be assimilated and thoroughly imbued with the American spirit."

"From the beginning of the republic America has been a haven to the oppressed and the suffering from all the nations of the world. We have come to that state of our development where we have learned that the obligations of citizenship of every country must be assumed by those who accept the grant of American citizenship."

"From this time on we are more concerned with the making of citizens than we are with adding to the mass power of industry and commerce."

"With a new realization of the necessity of development and distinctiveness in this country, we must favor such modification of our immigration laws and such changes in our international understanding, and such a policy relative to those who

Wadsworth, Jr., who received the endorsement of the unofficial Republican state convention, is opposed by Mrs. Ella A. Hoole, state president of the Women's Christian Temperance union, and George Henry Hayes, city tax commissioner.

Nathan A. Miller, of Syracuse, former judge of the court of appeals, designs of the unofficial Republican state convention for governor, is opposed by senator George F. Thompson.

The contest for the senatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket is between Lieut. Gov. Harry C. Walker, of Binghamton, and mayor George H. Linn, of Schenectady.

Lieut. Gov. Walker is the designee of the unofficial Democratic state convention.

WASHINGTON IS VOTING.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 14.—Washington state and women went to the polls for the first time in history today in select state, congressional and county candidates to be voted on at the general election, November 2.

Early Democratic and Republican parties were represented in the primaries. Prohibitionists meeting in convention in Tacoma and members of the Farmer-Labor party in Seattle to name their candidates.

COX APPEARS
IN MONTANA

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Grabbed Democratic Machinery.

For while the Non-Partisan league captured the legal machinery of the Republican party in North Dakota and the same Non-Partisan league out the labor elements in Montana seized the Democratic machinery in the state primaries this year and nominated their own man for governor—B. K. Wheeler, formerly United States attorney whose record of friendship for the radicals and I. W. W. during war time caused the Wilson administration to fail to reappoint him when his term expired last year. It so happens that Gov. Cox received Mr. Wheeler on the train while campaigning in Montana last week. Although this pledged the Non-Partisan league Democrats it made the old line Democrats and conservative element in the state swallow hard.

The feeling is so acute that while the Democratic state ticket of Non-Partisan league has officially endorsed Gov. Cox, much as the Non-Partisan group in North Dakota has formally approved of Harding and Coolidge, this has little bearing on what the rank and file will do. For instance, while the Democratic politicians who had the party machinery wrested from their grasp at the primaries may hesitate for the reason of expediency to say publicly they will support the Republican candidate for governor, who, it is rumored, will be United States senator Joseph C. Wheeler, the truth is the regular Democratic vote will be split and only a part of it will go to the Non-Partisan league Democrats.

Angry at Intrusion.

Party lines are disappearing in the untimely Democratic and Republican clash against the intrusion in Montana affairs of Townsley and the North Dakota experiments in radicalism.

It is hard enough to have three crop failures in succession and it's hard luck to waste millions of dollars in seed and have the whole state retarded in its growth and development by factors over which there is no human control, but when a set of persons deliberately throws a monkey wrench in the struggling wheels of an infant state like Montana, the furrowed brows of the business men, big and little, the property owner and the planner are thoroughly comprehensible. It hurts.

The Democratic press, which predominates in this state, is either lukewarm or hostile to the state tickets of Democrats fostered on the party in the primaries. For a while it looked as if the Non-Partisan league would select the Republican state machinery as its prey in the primaries held in North Dakota.

There are some Democrats who are interested in national politics who think the struggle with the Non-Partisan league absolutely assures the state to Cox. But there are others who wonder if much of that Non-Partisan league vote will not go to Christiansen, the labor candidate for president or Debs.

In Butte, after talking with some of the radicals the writer got the impression that a large vote would be cast for both Debs and Christiansen if their names were placed on the ballot. It takes 5000 signatures to do this, something quite easy to do in the mining camps. But it would take compromise on the part of the Non-Partisan league and labor chiefs to start such a movement, and the consequences might be fatal to the chances of Mr. Wheeler and the Non-Partisan league state ticket. For the latter cannot win the state by their vote alone. They must acquire at least half of the regular Democratic vote.

Wheeler Called Radical.

Anything that savors of a desertion of the Cox national ticket would be viewed by Democrats among the old line Democrats who are holding their minds open on the subject of Mr. Wheeler's candidacy.

Moreover, much of the Christiansen or Debs strength is the normal Socialist vote. Probably at heart Mr. Wheeler is as dangerous a radical as the organization surrounding him. His radicalism is said to be the result of resentment over the criticism leveled at him while he was United States attorney.

In the Democratic state convention at Helena a few days ago Mr. Wheeler went out of his way to say that he was and is a Jeffersonian Democrat and that he hoped the people of the state would recognize a distinction between a man like senator Dixon, who he alleged, had sought the Non-Partisan league endorsement in a supposed communication with Townsley while he, Wheeler, had received the voluntary support of the Non-Partisan league.

The scuttled distinction between Mr. Dixon and the Non-Partisan league has been indignantly denied, while Mr. Wheeler's use of the word "voluntary" has been questioned. These admit that he didn't go to North Dakota to get Townsley's support, but effected an understanding which was far more important to the labor leaders of Montana. On this Townsley has been relying for the creating of a farmer labor alliance in this state that would carry out the Non-Partisan league program.

Of course, the radical movement is disintegrating, but Montana and North Dakota do not furnish the same opportunity for the creation of a radical program like that attempted by Townsley.

For one thing, North Dakota is a homogeneous state of farmers. Here labor saw an altogether different set of aims. Moreover, the big copper companies and the big oil interests, are not outsiders in the ways of the fighting radicals. They have a strange way of taking radicals into their confidence and making business interests of North Dakota have finally organized to fight the Non-Partisan league and have already elected a few state officers, the conservatives and money power in Montana is already well equipped to handle the Non-Partisan league even if it should happen to get possession of the state government next fall.

Neither the Cox nor the Roosevelt trip to this state on fire with excitement politically. Criticism of the speeches and the texts chosen for them will look and feel as natural to the people as the weather.

The Cox trip to Montana, however, was not only among Republicans but Democrats. Some of the radicals who are supposed to be supporting the Democratic national ticket, several of whom by Gov. Cox's hosts about his failure to use the keynote to settle labor disputes.

Like Cox to Wilson. They are all inclined to regard Cox as far in lead.

New York, Sept. 14.—United States senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Nebraska, speaking before the Arkwright club here today, declared Gov. Cox, if elected, would exercise his presidential powers as they were exercised by Wilson, Roosevelt, Cleveland, Lincoln and other strong men of both parties, while senator Harding, if elected, would exercise his presidential powers "under some form of dictatorship by a senatorial oligarchy in control of party machinery."

If this question can be fairly considered by the voters, he said, it seems to be a majority will decide in favor of an individual president rather than a president sitting as a figurehead for a combination of senators.

Says Every Railroad Man Should Read This

Peterman's Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., Dear Sir: I was afflicted with what you would call a very bad case of hemorrhoids, and up until about five weeks ago I have been suffering from it for about a year and five months.

With all the treatments that were prescribed to me by several doctors I received little benefit, and they kept spreading and grew more and more and caused me to quit my work.

I was induced by a brother brakeman to try Peterman's Ointment, and after I had used two boxes I saw wonderful results. You can tell everything else falls as I have tried about everything. Thanking you very much for your kind and friendly letter, I am, Sir, very truly, Yours, C. J. Hoyer, Buffalo, N. Y., Corbett Drug Co. or Scott White & Co. will supply you.—Adv.
